Dear Rabbi Schneerson,

Your seventieth birthday gives me a welcome opportunity to applaud your many successful years as Lubavitcher Rebbe.

Your dedication to the teaching of your Faith and your emphasis on a vocational training have made the Lubavitch movement an asset not only to the Jewish religion, but to all citizens. Steadfastness in religious belief has been a central sustaining force in American life, and your contribution to the moral and spiritual strength of our society has been particularly significant.

May you have the happiest of birthdays as you look back on your full and rewarding work, and may the years ahead be filled with all the satisfaction you have earned.

Sincerely,

Richard Nixon

Mr. Richard Nixon
President of the United States
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Greeting and Blessing:

This is to convey to you, my dear Mr. President, my heartfelt appreciation of your kind felicitations and good wishes on the occasion of my birthday.

I assume that your warm wishes were meant not for me alone, but for the two-centuries old movement which I am privileged to head and lead by the grace of Divine Providence, specifically for the time-honored principles and ideals to which our movement is dedicated, and for the services it renders in this country and in other parts. I refer especially to the field of education and youth work, where there is a crying need for this kind of public service, particularly in the present day and age.

In the light of the above, I am profoundly indebted to you, Mr. President, for your personal attention and warm sentiments and good wishes on this occasion, since this gives us the confidence that we have your sympathetic consideration and moral support, and may look forward to increased participation of the Government and its agencies in this sphere of education and youth work.

For this I thank you, Mr. President, no less gratefully than for your and Mrs. Nixon's personal good wishes to me.

May I add my prayerful wishes to you and Mrs. Nixon and all your family that you see the fulfillment of the Divine Promise to our Patriarch Abraham, "I will bless them that bless thee," in a very generous measure.

Cordially,

M. Schneerson
